There will be 10 questions given to each participant on a sheet of paper. He has to write all the answers in front of the respective question and submit it to the organisers within the time duration or whenever he finishes (whichever occurs first). The participant has to first decode the clue and then search it on google (or any search engines).

If the participant needs help, he'll be given clues; which deducts 10 points from his score.

It's compulsory to answer all the questions. If the participant answers a question, he is given 10 points even if the answer is wrong; but if he gives the right answer then he is given 20 points.

The person to answer the maximum correct answers and by using minimum number of links is declared as the winner.
